

Arafat in Beirut after Iraq visit

BEIRUT, July 26 (R) -- Palestine Liberation Organisation Chairman Yasser Arafat arrived here today from Baghdad after a 10-day visit to the Iraqi capital. The Palestine news agency AFA said the Palestinian leader had talks with Iraqi President Saddam Hussein on the Middle East situation, notably the Palestinian cause, as well as international questions. Before arriving in Baghdad, Mr. Arafat visited the Soviet Union, Nicaragua, Cuba and Czechoslovakia.

Deputy interior minister nominated as Iran premier

TEHRAN, July 26 (Agencies) -- President Abol Hassan Bani-Sadr, in an apparent compromise with his radical Islamic opponents, today nominated Deputy Interior Minister Mostafa Mir-Salim as Iran's new prime minister.

Following weeks of wrangling the fundamentalist Islamic Islamic Party (IRP), Mr. Sadr put forward Mr. Mir-Salim in a letter to the Majlis (parliament), which is expected to vote on the nomination tomorrow.

Mr. Mir-Salim, a 33-year-old trained engineer, is a member of the IRP's central committee, but is regarded as taking a more independent line within the party.

Mr. Bani-Sadr's original preference was Culture Minister Hossein Shariatmadari, while the IRP had proposed as its lead candidate hardliner Jafar Khatami, who served as liaison in the 1970's with the Palestine Liberation Movement in Lebanon.

If approved by the Majlis, Mr. Mir-Salim will be Iran's first prime minister since the February 1979 revolution.

Mr. Mehdi Bazargan resigned as provisional premier Nov. 6, two days after radical Islamic students occupied the U.S. embassy.

Political sources said it was too soon to say what effect the appointment of Mr. Mir-Salim would have on the hostage crisis.

The IRP, which already has a dominating role in the Majlis, is likely to take a major share of cabinet posts. Combined with the expected departure of figures like Foreign Minister Sadeg Ghotbzadeh, who has sought a negotiated settlement on the hostages, this could tighten the terms for the captives' release.

On the other hand, if the new government proves capable of decisive action, this could at least put an end to the vacillation and confusion between conflicting power centres which has bedevilled efforts so far to settle the crisis, the sources noted.

Meanwhile, the Pars news agency reported eight men had been executed — four by firing squad Saturday in the southwest town of Andimeshk, including one with alleged links to the CIA, and the other four on Friday in the northeastern city of Mashad.

Pars said the four executed in Andimeshk were identified as having taken an active part in clashes there earlier this year and were sentenced by the revolutionary court in nearby Dezful Friday.

It said one of them was guilty of leading attacks on the Andimeshk guards corps and taking part in the occupation of government offices. Another, who had links with the CIA, admitted planning the Andimeshk clashes, it said.

Pars said those executed in Mashad included one found guilty of being a local chief and interrogator for SAVAK, Iran's notorious intelligence agency under the deposed Shah, and torturing many revolutionaries, some of whom had died under torture.

Another had committed armed robbery and fomented terror and intimidation, it said, while the other two were found guilty of rape and armed robbery. The court also sentenced another man to five years imprisonment for armed robbery, Pars said.

A Tehran newspaper today published a series of accusations, including espionage charges, against Mrs. Cynthia Dwyer, an American freelance journalist arrested here in May.

But an official in the revolutionary prosecutor's office said it had not received any formal notification that charges were being made against her by the central revolutionary committee. Tehran's chief public security body, a committee official declined to comment.

The Islamic Republic newspaper quoted a publication called "Guardian of the Islamic Revolution," itself said to be published by the "Guardians of the Central Committee."

First in the list of accusations against Mrs. Dwyer, 49, was "taking actions towards spying and preparing the ground for the renewed U.S. military attack on Iran."

Revolutionary guards detained Mrs. Dwyer, who was accredited as a journalist for a publication in Buffalo, New York, at the Tehran Hilton hotel on May 5. Revolutionary prosecutor Ali Ghodousi said later she was in the city's Evin prison.

WASHINGTON, July 26 (R) -- Fifty Democratic "rebels" in the House of Representatives have discussed seeking a new presidential candidate amid the controversy over ties between President Carter's brother Billy and the Libyan Jamahiriyyah, congressional sources said today.

The congressmen, who have held at least two meetings, talked about a possible "open" party convention in New York in August and a candidate other than Mr. Carter, the sources said.

Vice President Walter Mondale and Secretary of State Edmund Muskie were said to be among alternative candidates mentioned at the meetings.

The sources said some trade union leaders, including supporters of President Carter's rival for the nomination, Senator Edward Kennedy, had reported mounting criticism among their members over the Billy Carter affair and its possible effect on the Democrats' chances in the November election.

Billy Carter finally registered as an agent of the Libyan government on July 14 after revealing he had received $220,000 in loans from the Libyan government. The Justice Department then dropped an investigation and decided there was no need to prosecute Billy Carter for not registering earlier.

White House spokesman Jody Powell, asked last night to assess the political damage the Billy Carter affair had caused his brother, said: "It is obviously an extremely difficult situation for us."

"But we feel confident we will come out right in the end," Mr. Powell said.

Waldheim endorses call for Palestinian statehood

UNITED NATIONS, July 26 (R) U.N. Secretary-General Dr. Kurt Waldheim called for the establishment of an independent Palestinian state when speaking at a dinner given by the Arab League last night.

Mr. Andrew Young, who resigned last August as U.S. ambassador to the U.N. after a row over his unauthorized contact with the Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO), was among those present.

One guest said the Arab League representative at the U.N., Mr. Clovis Maksoud, was so pleased by Mr. Waldheim's strong pro-Arab position that he asked for a transcript of the statement and planned to distribute this verbatim.

There was no immediate reaction by U.N. officials to the account of Mr. Waldheim's remarks, said to have included a reiteration of his view that the PLO must be brought into peace negotiations and his endorsement of Palestinian self-determination.

Israel strongly rejects both propositions. The General Assembly, which began an emergency session on the Palestinian question last Tuesday, is expected to adopt a resolution early next week calling for total, unconditional Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands, and the creation of a separate Palestinian state.

Diplomatic sources said the vote for the resolution, tabled last night by some 30 non-aligned and communist members, was bound to be overwhelming.

The European Economic Community members were expected to abstain, despite a strong appeal by the United States that they join that country in opposing the text.

Israel has already called the special session illegal and declared that any resolution adopted would be invalid.

Riad Taha funeral in Lebanon 10 killed as strife disrupts cortege of slain journalist

BEIRUT, July 26 (R) -- At least ten people were killed today in armed clashes as the funeral procession for Mr. Riad Taha, assassinated head of the Lebanese Press Association, wound its way through the historic city of Baalbek. Many others were wounded.

Security sources said the clashes developed between supporters of the Muslim Shi'ite movement Amal and pro-Iraqi Baathists. They stopped after the intervention of Arab peace-keeping forces.

The cortege was heading for nearby Hermel. Mr. Taha's hometown, some 145 kilometres east of Beirut.

Mr. Taha, 53, and his driver were assassinated by unknown gunmen in Beirut Wednesday. The killings were widely condemned by both leftist and rightist figures in this deeply divided country.

Thousands of people had gathered at the approaches of Baalbek to await the arrival of the body from Beirut.

Mourners at the funeral included outgoing Premier Salim Al-Huss, government, religious and trade union representatives and delegates from neighbouring Arab states.

"We denounce and condemn all illegal military manifestations and the logic of arms and armed men... the peaceful area has been terrorised by violations and irresponsible behaviour of armed men," Dr. Hoss said in a press statement after the clashes.

Judicial sources earlier said they were investigating whether Mr. Taha's assassination was part of an inter-Shi'ite feud.

U.N. Palestine plan considered a shoo-in UNITED NATIONS, July 26 (Agencies) -- With passage of a modified U.N. General Assembly resolution upholding Palestinian statehood a near-certainty, attention is now focusing on the question how big will the margin of victory be?

The draft resolution submitted last night by 29 non-aligned, Islamic and communist nations calls on Israel to withdraw from occupied and unconditionally from Arab lands occupied since the 1967 Middle East war.

The draft was submitted before the 152-nation special session adjourned for the weekend. The resolution was expected to be considered Monday or Tuesday.

The newly submitted resolution was certain to get many votes but considered unlikely by many to have practical effect. An Israeli diplomat said he expected over 100 countries to vote for it.

A western diplomat said he thought that Israel, the United States, Canada, Australia, Iceland, and maybe Norway and New Zealand would vote against it.

He said the big question was how many abstentions there would be to trim the favourable vote. The European Common Market countries, engaged in their own peace effort, seemed likely to abstain.

Assembly resolutions are usually only recommendations. But the pending resolution has provisions intended to enforce it.

It authorises U.N. Secretary-General Dr. Kurt Waldheim "to take the necessary measures" toward implementing the U.N. Palestinian rights committee's proposal to give the PLO the 1975-occupied Gaza Strip and West Bank for a Palestinian state.

It asks Dr. Waldheim to report results to next fall's Assembly session, asks the Security Council to meet to consider sanctioning the event of Israel's noncompliance and established that the emergency session can be reconvened "upon request from member states."

67 U.S. tanks sold to Egypt for $104m

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) -- The U.S. Defence Department has announced an unexpected sale of an additional 67 advanced M-60 tanks to Egypt.

In a letter asking for congressional approval of the sale, the Pentagon said Friday it wants to provide Egypt the additional 67 M-60-A-3 tanks with sophisticated gun-aiming equipment for about $104 million instead of 130 M-48-A-5 tanks, which experts say are obsolete.

The new sale follows by four months an allotment of 244 M-60-A-3 tanks to replace the Egyptians' old Russian-supplied armour that is fast becoming unserviceable. That deal cost $454.1 million and has been approved by the U.S. Congress.

The first M-60-A-3 tank is due for delivery to Egypt this coming December.

The M-60-A-3 represents a major advance over earlier models of the M-60 tank because it is equipped with a laser range-finder and electronic computer which gives it 105-millimetre gun greatly increased "first round hit" accuracy. Also built into the M-60-A-3 are night sights and other improved technology.

The Pentagon has also agreed to sell Israel 200 A-60-A-3 tanks with delivery beginning in June 1981 and continuing for six months.

The tank deals were negotiated as part of major arms packages for both countries promised by the United States to induce Tel Aviv and Cairo to complete a peace treaty.

Regional Briefs

ADDIS ABABA, July 26 (R) -- Saudi Arabia today confirmed for the first time that Idi Amin, the Ugandan dictator overthrown last year, was in the country. But the official Saudi press agency noted a responsible source as saying that the ex-president, a Muslim, was in the kingdom not as a refugee but to perform a pilgrimage to the holy places of Islam. The agency said that the source, commenting on British press reports that Amin had taken refuge in Saudi Arabia, had noted "it is the right of any Muslim to perform his religious duties." When a British television journalist interviewed the ex-president at a secret location earlier this year it was widely reported in the British press that the former Ugandan ruler was living in exile in a Jeddah hotel.

CAIRO, July 26 (R) -- Egypt will not recall its ambassador to Israel if Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin moves his office to East Jerusalem, official sources were quoted as saying in today's edition of Al-Gomhouria newspaper. An Israeli radio report quoted western sources as saying so, and added that President Anwar Sadat viewed the Israeli move as a unilateral annexation of the eastern sector of the city of Jerusalem captured in the 1967 war. Egypt maintains that East Jerusalem is an integral part of the West Bank and regards any Israeli moves to annex it as null and void.

TEHRAN, July 26 (R) -- Iran's embassy in France is to be headed in the time being by a newly appointed charge d'affaires, Mr. Ali Amir-Fatehi, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said today. The spokesman said the ambassador, Mr. Amir Ala'i, completed his assignment ten days ago and was remaining in Paris for a medical check-up. It was not known when Mr. Ala'i would return to Iran. The spokesman denied reports that Mr. Ala'i had resigned or had differences with Iranian Foreign Minister Sadeg Ghotbzadeh, who visited Paris earlier this month.

ABAT, July 26 (R) -- King Hassan II of Morocco has appealed to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to adopt a firm attitude against a decision to make occupied Jerusalem the capital of Israel. In a message to the Egyptian head of state published here today he appealed to President Sadat "to put an end to the Israeli challenge by demonstrating the greatest firmness" against the decision.

TEL AVIV, July 26 (R) -- Former Israeli foreign minister Moshe Dayan said yesterday he opposed a decision by Prime Minister Menachem Begin to move his offices to occupied East Jerusalem, annexed by Israel in 1967. In an interview on Israeli television, Mr. Dayan described the prime minister's decision as superfluous.

"The Americans oppose it and it will impede the Egyptians in normalising relations with us because of anger in the Arab World and inside Egypt."

PEKING, July 26 (R) -- The Chinese airline, CAAC, opens a new weekly route between Peking and Baghdad tomorrow, the airline announced in the People's Daily today. It is the first route opened by the Chinese airline to an Arab Middle East country.

PLO claims 'total victory' at women's conference

COPENHAGEN, July 26 (AP) -- The Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) proclaimed "total victory" Friday night as a committee of the U.N. women's conference here voted it a prominent role mid-way through the U.N.-proclaimed decade for women.

The committee put into the action plan for the second half of the decade a provision that assistance to Palestinian women be given in "consultation and cooperation" with the PLO.

The vote was a clear setback for efforts by the Israeli, U.S. and most western delegations to remove from the action programme all elements preventing consensus.

The PLO observer delegation was jubilant. There was no way to prevent the plenary session next week from adopting an action plan that not only gives the PLO a role in handling U.N. funds, but also refers to Israel as "the occupied territories."

U.S. delegates would not immediately commit themselves on their stand in the plenary, but it was extremely unlikely that they would accept that kind of language.

"We don't know yet," one U.S. delegate said when asked about the American strategy for the plenary session.

Friday's vote came after four hours of committee debate that at one point had to be suspended simply because there was too much confusion on which of a number of rival motions the committee was supposed to be voting on.

The issue at stake was an action programme amendment and addendum submitted by India on behalf of Arab, socialist and most of the Third World countries. Originally the amendment would have had all aid to Palestinian women channelled through the PLO, but India agreed to tone it down to the provision for consultations and cooperation with the PLO.

Still the amendment troubled Israel and many western countries because it ignored the existence of Israel as a state and flatly defined the PLO as "the representative of the Palestinian people."

Denmark made a last-ditch effort by moving that the issue be transmitted to a new "contact" committee with a few representatives from each of the U.N. regions. But despite backing from New Zealand, Britain, Sweden and other countries, the Bulgarian committee chairman refused to put the Danish motion to a vote.

The head of the U.S. delegation, Sarah Weddington, described the afternoon's defeat as "a session out of order."

"It's with a great sense of sadness that we see this conference not focusing on women's issues, but debating instead on issues wholly extraneous to it," she complained.

Ms. Weddington ruled out a walkout by the U.S. delegation from a plenary vote, however. She told the Associated Press, "We will continue to look for alternate ways" to arrive at a plan of action palatable to all delegations.

But several U.S. delegations sources indicated the United States would be forced to vote against the plan.

2 interrogated in hijacking

KUWAIT, July 26 (R) -- Kuwaiti security forces today interrogated two Palestinians who surrendered last night after hijacking a Kuwait Airways Boeing 737 for 24 hours while demanding money.

The hijackers, armed with pistols, grenades and explosives, surrendered unconditionally and released all 34 people still on board the plane.

The hijackers had held the pilot at gunpoint and threatened crew and passengers with grenades as for 24 hours the plane shuttled between airports in the Gulf and Iran.

The two finally surrendered at Kuwait Airport.

Kuwaiti Interior Minister Sheikh Nawaf Al-Sabah and Defence Minister Sheikh Salim Al-Sabah immediately started supervising interrogation of the two men, the Kuwait news agency said.

The agency identified the hijackers as Palestinians with Jordanian passports named Yusuf Mofleh and Uthman Yusuf Abdul Karim.

Kuwaiti officials said earlier the two seized the plane to demand a vast sum of money they claimed was owed them by a Kuwaiti merchant.

Party rebels discuss 'dumping' Carter

WASHINGTON, July 26 (R) -- Fifty Democratic "rebels" in the House of Representatives have discussed seeking a new presidential candidate amid the controversy over ties between President Carter's brother Billy and the Libyan Jamahiriyyah, congressional sources said today.

The congressmen, who have held at least two meetings, talked about a possible "open" party convention in New York in August and a candidate other than Mr. Carter, the sources said.

Vice President Walter Mondale and Secretary of State Edmund Muskie were said to be among alternative candidates mentioned at the meetings.

The sources said some trade union leaders, including supporters of President Carter's rival for the nomination, Senator Edward Kennedy, had reported mounting criticism among their members over the Billy Carter affair and its possible effect on the Democrats' chances in the November election.

President Carter has so far kept a firm grip on his big batch of convention delegates who could ensure his renomination in New York as the Democratic presidential candidate.

But congressional sources said the House "rebels" felt a new man was needed to unite the Democrats before the Nov. 4 presidential and congressional elections against the Republican party and its standard bearer, Mr. Ronald Reagan, who enjoys a big lead over Mr. Carter in opinion polls.

The "rebels" were also said by the sources to be anxious to make clear their meetings should not be regarded as a drive to make Senator Kennedy the Democratic presidential nominee.

Senator Birch Bayh, the Indiana Democrat who is chairing a special Senate Judiciary subcommittee investigating the Billy Carter affair, said his panel would need evidence from President Carter and his wife, Rosalynn.

Mr. Powell has said Mrs. Carter recalled that some time after the U.S. hostages were captured in Iran Nov. 4 she asked Billy Carter to try to secure their release.

On Nov. 27, White House National Security Adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, Billy Carter and Libyan diplomat Ali Houderi had a meeting to discuss the hostage question.

Tightening the White House connections with the affair, Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti said yesterday Mr. Carter asked him on June 17 what was likely to happen if his brother registered as a foreign agent. See story on page 61.

Mazin Quteishat: A youth undaunted by blindness

Text and photos by Ron Cathell
Jordan Times Staff Reporter

LT, July 26 — Mazin Quteishat an unusual 16-year-old Jordanian boy. He goes to high school in the United States, plays 12 musical instruments, knows his way around Salt like an oldtimer, and is blind.

At the age of three, Mazin lost sight for reasons doctors have yet been able to explain. But his blindness has not slowed down young Salti.

One month after graduating at age of 14 (at the level of ninth grade) from the Institute for the Blind in Ashrafieh, Mazin was proudly selected from his class to attend high school in the United States.

The programme was arranged by His Highness Prince Ra'ed who, Mazin told the Jordan Times, wanted to help out by giving him the opportunity to study at a high school for the blind.

There are no high schools here that specialise in education for blind. Even the Institute for the Blind (grades one through six) is poorly equipped for the blind students, Mazin says.

Though there are enough good teachers, there are not enough printed in braille or enough tapes. And public schools in Jordan are even poorer prepared for educating the blind, he explained, relaying his family's home on one of the highest hilltops overlooking downtown Salt.

Mazin grew up in Salt. He knows the town as well as the old residents, and can give specific directions to any stranger about anything that can be found. He made his way around as a boy in the neighbourhood near his father's general store.

He is especially familiar with the area near his house. He walks around up and down the steep stairways, on which a wrong move could be fatal. He doesn't allow the danger to bother him. In fact, Mazin proudly claims to be able to do anything with sight as he is able to do.

Going to Overbrook School for the Blind in Philadelphia has given him the chance to prove it. "Being blind doesn't bother me, because I do not just about everything people with sight can do," he said. Unfortunately, people with sight think that blind people can't do anything. So I like to get that out of their heads."

For example, Mazin enjoys getting such sceptics into a card game. After he beats them, their preconceived ideas about the blind are radically changed.

"A lot of people have the wrong idea about the blind. They're afraid of them. It's really stupid," he said.

Mazin and his family are very proud of his accomplishments at Overbrook and the fact that he is the first—and, so far, the only—student there from the Arab World, and Mazin is glad.

"Otherwise I never would have learned English. I would have spent my time with them (Arab students) and would have spoken Arabic the whole time," he said.

When Mazin was chosen to go to Overbrook, he was ambivalent about the prospects.

"I was happy and worried at the same time," he said. "I was hesitant because my English was very weak. I was only 14 when I arrived in the U.S., and I knew that I would be able to come home only once a year."

McDonald's restaurant.

Only privileged students are able to eat there, because the famous hamburger restaurant is off campus. To journey off campus a student must have a "mobility" pass, which is earned by passing a test, taking instructions using a cane in public places, and showing an ability to know one's way around certain areas.

The normal mobility pass allows a student to journey off campus alone only in a certain specified area. A more advanced mobility pass, however, means a student can explore anywhere off campus, even if that means riding buses. Mazin holds such an advanced pass.

"That one is important," he said, "because you can use it to go to McDonald's."

good school. It has lots of activities. Besides parties and concerts, there are sports and music. We have a track team, a swimming team and a wrestling team. And there are a boys' and a girls' ensemble, a mixed ensemble, a choir and a handbell group."

Mazin is on all the sporting teams, and is also a member of the handbell group. As if that were not enough, he has managed to find time to join the Boy Scouts.

"There are so many things to do. You never get bored," he said.

After two years, Overbrook has become a second home for him. He is so attached to the school and his friends that he already dreads the day when he must leave.

With one more year left in school, Mazin has begun thinking about how he can stay in the U.S. to work and go to university.

"I would love to stay in the United States and go to university there. That's my aim. But I don't know how, moneywise. It's very expensive," he said.

Mazin hopes he may qualify for a special grant or scholarship from any American university. He wants to study either law or music at a school equipped to educate the blind. Mazin has studied music for 10 years, and would like further to develop his talents.

Although he would be delighted to live back in Jordan after finishing high school, instead of just visiting here during summer vacations, Mazin is concerned about the quality of higher education here for the blind.

"I would have a lot of difficulties in my studies if I stayed here," he said. "I'm not aware of any special programmes or facilities in universities here for the blind."

"There aren't enough books for the blind, and there aren't any records or tapes. I'm used to the States, so it would be really hard for me to come study here."

Mazin hopes some arrangements can be made to enable him to stay and study in the U.S. And he is grateful to Prince Ra'ed for making it possible for him to experience education in the United States. Mazin would like to see other enthusiastic blind Jordanian students follow in his footsteps.

Mazin Quteishat: "People with sight often think that blind people can't do anything. I like to get that idea out of their heads."

His first three months in the U.S. were extremely difficult. On several occasions he was ready to come home because he was having a hard time adjusting to the language, food and culture.

"I was ready to come back the second day," he said, recalling the tough times he had in those early days at Overbrook. "I couldn't understand the people. They spoke too fast. But I waited it out and now I love it. I really do."

Mazin has grown especially fond of American food, and now, sitting at home in Salt, he fantasises himself by thinking of eating a steak sandwich topped with melted cheese and hot peppers. And he has also become addicted to such specialties as American hamburgers and pizza. One of his favourite places to eat is a

Of the 250 students at Overbrook, not all are totally blind, and most live on campus. Mazin lives in the boys' dormitory, and has a room to himself.

He keeps himself very busy, rising early to be at class by 8:15 a.m. Classes continue until 3 p.m., with half an hour for lunch.

From 3 p.m. to 5:30 he works out in sports, or practises music, and then has most of the evening free to study, talk with friends or "walk around with a girlfriend or something," he said bashfully with a wide grin across his face.

Mazin has made many friends, both boys and girls, but he admits to having a "special girlfriend" waiting for him.

"I really have a very tight schedule. I like to fit everything in," he said. "Overbrook is a very good school. It has lots of activities. Besides parties and concerts, there are sports and music. We have a track team, a swimming team and a wrestling team. And there are a boys' and a girls' ensemble, a mixed ensemble, a choir and a handbell group."

Mazin is on all the sporting teams, and is also a member of the handbell group. As if that were not enough, he has managed to find time to join the Boy Scouts.

People ...in the news

FAMILIES have a tendency to grow by leaps and bounds, and the Jordan Times family has been doing just that.

It was with delight that the staff here learned of two births on Thursday, within the space of a few hours. Former editor-in-chief and current contributing editor Rami Khouri and wife Ellen are now the proud parents of the irrepressible Haitham, while sports and economy pages editor

Samir Ghawi and wife Maha weighed in on the same day with a strapper to be known as Shafi ("not Shafiq," insists Samir, who foresees endless problems in the future with that finli qaf).

Both new arrivals are, of course, the most beautiful baby in the world.

Our congratulations to Abu Haitham and Abu Shafi, and to Ellen and Maha. Good timing!

TENDER NOTICE ABU NUSSEIR NEW TOWN

The Jordan Housing Corporation invites to tender on the Abu Nusseir Housing Project, Phase I, all local and foreign contractors which already have been pre-qualified for this phase, according to terms and instructions stated in the prequalifications letter, taking into consideration the following points:-

1. Documents and drawings can be obtained from the Tender Section at the Housing Corporation against a non-refundable payment of JD 480, beginning from Aug. 2, 1980.
2. Closing date for acceptance of written enquiries and questions on the tender documents and drawings is Sept. 1, 1980.
3. The Housing Corporation will reply to such enquiries by Oct. 1, 1980.
4. The contractor should submit an offer for all the parts comprising this phase, either with construction through system or traditional, or through both, in addition to the infrastructure works.
5. The corporation reserves the right to award this tender on a partial basis unless the tendering contractor refuses such terms overtly.
6. The contractor should submit a time schedule for the project's implementation, taking into consideration that a short implementation period will be an important factor in awarding the contract.
7. Offers should be submitted to the Tender Section at the Housing Corporation before 12 noon, Saturday Nov. 15, 1980.
8. The Jordan Housing Corporation is under no obligation to accept the least or any offer.
9. Advertisement fees in local papers shall be borne by the contractor awarded this tender.

U.S. sees optimistic world trade prospects

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — The U.S. Department of Commerce sees excellent prospects for U.S. sales to the far east and South Asia, with U.S. exports rising faster than imports in the first five months of this year.

A semi-annual world trade outlook, part of the department's publication "Foreign Commerce," reported yesterday that U.S. exports grew 25 per cent over those in the same period last year, significantly faster than imports. The exports to poor countries grew faster than those to Japan and Australia.

But the U.S. trade deficit with the region still amounted to $4.1 billion for the period, with U.S. imports at $25.1 billion.

JAPAN — Japan dominates U.S. trade with the region, though U.S. exports there are expected to account for only 17.5 per cent of what the U.S. sells in the country this year, compared with 19.4 per cent in 1979. U.S. exports to Japan are projected at $20.2 billion for the year, the U.S. deficit for the January-May period was $4.1 billion compared with $3.7 billion in 1979.

The survey reports that Japanese still contend that U.S. companies do not make a genuine effort to penetrate the market, while American traders assert that Japan blocks their access with an elaborate system of restrictive measures.

TAIWAN — This continues to be one of the most promising markets in Asia for U.S. goods and services, the survey says. From January through April 1980, U.S. exports were 59 per cent higher than they were in the same period last year, and U.S. imports also showed big gains.

The trend in formal diplomatic relations between Taiwan and the United States, and between Taiwan and the International Monetary Fund had no detectable effect on the country's economic growth, the survey reported.

AUSTRALIA — A bright outlook for the medium and long term in Australia's economy augurs well for increased U.S. exports, including development and mining equipment, the survey says.

The survey notes U.S. companies must invest $1.5 billion in Australia this year, 25 per cent more than in 1979.

SOUTH AFRICA — Though the country's economic growth has moderated, the survey suggests that U.S. firms have a number of opportunities for sales in the long term. These include metal-mining and fishing equipment, equipment for handling minerals, and for the generation, transmission and distribution of power.

Growth of Korea's imports for the rest of the year is expected to centre on energy sources, essential raw materials and commodities.

INDIA — Despite India's economic problems, U.S. exports to the country through May were $290 million more than for the same period in 1979. Because of India's restrictions on the import of consumer goods and some equipment, the market for U.S. manufactured goods is largely for high technology items.

Under Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, import policy continues the modest trend toward liberalization started by the previous government, the survey found.

PHILIPPINES — U.S. exports have grown rapidly — 52 per cent in 1979. The greatest increases were in specialized industrial machinery and parts of electronic tubes and semi-conductors. These two lines can be expected to show "dramatic" growth, the report says.

It finds American companies in the area very optimistic about future opportunities, suggesting that restrictions on investment should be interpreted "liberally."

Meanwhile, U.S. exports to the Near East — North Africa region should surpass $15 billion this year, the U.S. Department of Commerce said in its semi-annual report.

It said the best U.S. performance in the area was in North Africa, where the U.S. substantially increased sales to Algeria, Libya, Morocco, Tunisia and Egypt during the first four months of 1980.

Referring to Saudi Arabia, the department said total U.S. imports from Saudi Arabia, estimated at $25 billion in 1979, are increasing at a rate of 25 per cent annually. U.S. exports to Saudi Arabia in 1979 were nearly $5 billion and may increase by 20 per cent this year.

With a market share of slightly higher than 20 per cent, the United States remains Saudi Arabia's leading supplier of goods and services, the report said.

U.S. exports to Egypt from January through May this year amounted to $559 million and are likely to surpass the annual record level of $1.4 billion set in 1979.

The report said Egypt continues to progress in its economic reform programme.

U.S. exports to Israel increased slightly in the first four months of 1980 to $596 million from $570 million in the same period last year, it said.

Economic News Briefs

Mexico's Lopez in Brazil for economic talks

BRASILIA, July 26 (R) — Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo arrives here tomorrow for a state visit to Brazil aimed at strengthening economic and trade cooperation between the two countries. Diplomats said several bilateral accords on trade exchanges and technological cooperation were expected to be signed. Brazil is interested in receiving more Mexican oil. Mexico has expressed an interest in purchasing Brazilian iron ore. Brazil, which imports more than 80 per cent of its oil needs, receives 20,000 barrels a day from Mexico. This could increase to 40,000 or 50,000 barrels a day in two years, the sources said.

Africans to finance communications network

YAOUNDE, Cameroon, July 26 (R) — All the delegations at a pan-African conference on communications support the idea of a fund to finance a better communications network for the continent, conference sources said today. The 10-day conference, sponsored by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, opened here on Tuesday. Delegates have agreed to set up two committees. One committee is examining the general problem of communications in Africa. The other is looking into the specific difficulties surrounding the introduction of modern communications.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Because of planetary influences you could run into some problems of a minor nature early in the day, but conditions return to normal later. Put more zest into your activities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to understand the expectations of those who have power over your affairs today. Gain more prestige in public matters.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is fine for studying new interests and making plans for the future. Show more thoughtfulness for others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Finish that work you started and then be off to the fascinating activities that appeal to you. Sidestep an opponent.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can work out a difficult problem with the help of others early in the day. Plan the new week wisely.

particularly the financial and technological aspects.

Accra Radio reported today that a telecommunications network linking the capitals of the 16 member countries of the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS) was expected to begin next year. It quoted the executive secretary of ECOWAS saying that a feasibility study on the project had already been completed and that a committee was studying monetary cooperation among the 16 member states.

U.S. approves Japanese nuclear plans

TOKYO, July 26 (R) — The United States has agreed to allow Japanese nuclear fuel reprocessing plant to expand operations by one year until next April, the science and technology agency said today. The United States also approved a Japanese plan to build plutonium conversion facilities by 1982 near the reprocessing plant at the Pacific coastal village of Tokai, a spokesman said. Under agreement with the United States, the Tokai reprocessing plant started testing operations in 1977 to reprocess 99 tons of spent nuclear fuel, but the operation was delayed because of radioactive leakage. The United States, which supplies Japan's enriched nuclear fuel needs, has power of veto over the country's reprocessing operations.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Attend to routine chores early in the day so you'll have time for social activities later. Show others you have poise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Daytime hours are best for being with good friends and relatives, and reserve personal duties for the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Pay more attention to family members and have more harmony at home. Make plans to have more abundance in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take those extra steps that are needed to gain your personal aims. Sidestep one who likes to impose on you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to please close ties today instead of worrying about personal affairs. Engage in favorite hobby.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Daytime hours are best for handling personal matters. Schedule social activities for the coming week.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care of private affairs early in the day and then join congenials at recreation you enjoy. Have a delightful time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You need to apply yourself more to gain your personal aims at this time. Show more consideration for the one you love.

Soviet news agency reports

U.S. increasing shipments of arms to Afghanistan

MOSCOW, July 26 (Agencies) — The Soviet news agency Tass said yesterday that Washington is preparing to step up arms shipments to Islamic rebel forces fighting against Afghanistan's Marxist government.

"U.S. officials are careful to avoid any denials of reports getting into the (American) press about expanded military supplies ordered by them, making it clear that the arms are on their way," Tass said.

It said the U.S. government thus has responded to "constructive and realistic proposals" for a settlement by the Afghan government with "escalation of armed interference in the affairs of an independent state."

"Giving up its attempts to camouflage the obvious... the United States is openly preparing to intensify its intervention against democratic Afghanistan," Tass said.

It said that "clearly at the bidding of the White House... The U.S. press has embarked on a lively debate over the alleged 'insufficiency' of equipment available to the bandit gangs operating in the territory of Afghanistan."

Such press stories, Tass said, are "designed to assure propagandistic preparation" for stepping up arms deliveries to the rebels.

Meanwhile, a number of Afghan guerrilla groups operating in Logar province, south of Kabul, have joined into one unit and been involved in heavy clashes with Soviet forces, diplomatic sources in New Delhi said yesterday.

Soviet MiG jets and helicopter gunships have been keeping up a high level of activity and were seen leaving Kabul for Logar and the Gahzai region, the sources said.

Heavy clashes were reported from the village of Kinjak at a small pass about 35 kilometres south of Kabul off the main road to Logar.

There were unconfirmed reports of a rebel attack on the Afghan army garrison at Ghazni, the sources said.

Billy registered as Libyan agent after president had talks with Atty. General

WASHINGTON, July 26 (Agencies) — Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti said yesterday that he had a chat with President Carter more than a month ago about his brother Billy's controversial dealings with Libyan government.

Mr. Civiletti added that the talk had taken place on June 17. That was a week before Mr. Billy Carter acknowledged he had been given a large loan by Libyan officials and long before he registered on July 14 as a Libyan agent in compliance with a U.S. law that requires anyone acting in the United States for other countries to register as a foreign agent.

The Justice Department later decided that there were no grounds to prosecute Mr. Billy Carter. Critics have asked whether the president's brother might have been tipped off about the probe so he could register to prevent prosecution.

Mr. Civiletti, whose statement came as a special Senate judiciary subcommittee said it would complete its own inquiry into the affair in a month's time, said he told the president that "I could not discuss the investigation."

Mr. Civiletti said President Carter had asked what was likely to happen if his brother registered as a foreign agent.

"Based on my understanding of (Justice) department practice, I told him that if a person tells the truth and registers, the previous failure to register has not been prosecutable," Mr. Civiletti said.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said last night President Carter had not recalled his exchange with Mr. Civiletti until he began checking his notes and logs.

"But President Carter was not trying to tell Mr. Civiletti what to do," Mr. Powell said.

Mr. Powell said the president had a brief telephone conversation with his brother on June 28 and Mr. Billy Carter said he had a lawyer and they were working with the Justice Department to solve the matter.

Jail for Americans who name U.S. spies

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP) — The U.S. House of Representatives' intelligence committee voted yesterday for legislation ordering jail terms for Americans who try to harm U.S. spy efforts by publicly naming secret agents.

The panel easily overcame the objections of congressmen who complained that the bill would cover journalists or anyone else who disclosed an agent's name after learning it from unclassified documents or any other source.

The bill was requested by CIA and FBI officials who have said the threat of agent and informant exposure has endangered lives and hurt operations vital to national security.

There had been little quarrel about provisions calling for jail terms up to ten years and fines up to $50,000 for anyone using his formal access to classified secrets in order to leak information identifying secret agents or sources.

Spanish police launch mass hunt for explosives

BILBAO, Spain, July 26 (AP) — Police sources said today the investigation of the theft of seven tons of plastic explosives yesterday included both left and right wing groups.

Police first said the theft appeared to be the work of ETA, the Basque Marxist separatist organization blamed for more than 50 political assassinations this year.

However, a telephone call to the San Sebastian newspaper Egin last night by a man who identified himself as an ETA spokesman, said the separatist organization had nothing to do with the theft at Soto de la Marina village in Santander province, 96 kilometres west of Bilbao.

Four of the seven commandos who broke into the village magazine, were dressed as paramilitary civil guards. Extreme right-wing groups fighting ETA have been active in terrorist bombings in northern Spain in the past few days.

The so-called "Triple A" rightist group took responsibility for the attack that destroyed the Lemon town hall in Vizcaya province last Sunday. There were no victims but damage to the building was estimated at about $700,000.

Experts said the explosives stolen at Soto de la Marina magazine would be enough to blow up the whole town of Bilbao.

A mass hunt for the explosives and the thieves has so far proved fruitless.

Police interview ballet company in 'Murder at the Met' mystery

NEW YORK, July 26 (AP) — While police pressed on with their search for a suspect in the opera house murder of violinist Helen Minkins, the city's chief medical examiner reported the woman was alive when she was hurtled down an air shaft to her death during a performance of the Berlin Ballet.

"The cause of death was multiple fractures to the skull, ribs and bones of the lower extremities," said Dr. Elliot Gross after an autopsy of the 30-year-old freelance musician. "The skull fractures and other fatal injuries were the result of the fall from the roof to the ledge."

Mrs. Minkins' bound and naked body was found on a ledge in an air duct between the third and fourth floors of the Metropolitan Opera House on Thursday morning. She "may have been unconscious" before she fell 18 metres from the duct's rooftop opening, Dr. Gross's report said.

The victim's shoes were found on the roof near the opening of the duct, and her clothes were found "near the body," police said yesterday. Police were tight-lipped about what article of clothing was used to bind and gag her, suggesting it could provide a lead to the killer.

There was "no apparent sexual assault," a police spokesman said.

The Canadian-born freelance violinist had disappeared around 9 p.m. on Wednesday evening during an intermission of a Berlin Ballet programme. Her body was found 11 hours later.

Police faced the task of interviewing some 250 people who were working in the theatre during the performance, including 116 members of the ballet troupe scheduled to leave Sunday for Washington for a two-week appearance in New York.

Homicide detectives said they believe the killer was familiar with the labyrinthine layout of the opera house's backstage areas. They said they believe the murderer had thorough knowledge of the building's behind-the-scenes construction, since the spot in the air intake system where the body was dumped was "rather remote."

A Met spokesman reported that there were more than 40 staircases and fire stairwells and 19 elevators that could have led to the rooftop.

The police had ruled out as suspects Mrs. Minkins' husband, who reported her missing Wednesday night, and ballet star Valery Panov, whom the dead woman was reportedly going to visit in his dressing room when she was last seen.

The emigre Russian ballet star said Mrs. Minkins did not appear at the dressing room, and he did not know her. A police spokesman said the victim may have been planning to discuss with Mr. Panov the possibility of getting a job for her husband, a sculptor, as a designer of stage sets.

Security at the Met was tightened amid complaints that identification cards to get backstage were rarely checked.

Mrs. Minkins, the daughter of Finnish parents, studied at the Juilliard School and with virtuoso violinist Nathan Milstein. She was considered a top-flight freelance musician and played with such conductors as Leopold Stokowski and Erich Leinsdorf.

In major shuffle of Chinese hierarchy

Hua to lose premiership Deng to be chief of state

TOKYO, July 26 (AP) — Chinese national People's Congress to convene next month, a Japanese newspaper reported today.

Deng Xiaoping

Quoting "very reliable sources in Tokyo," the Yomiuri Shimbun also said Premier Hua Guofeng will give up his premiership, but will retain his post as chairman of the Communist Party of China.

The 59-year-old Mr. Hua will be replaced as premier by Vice Premier Zhao Ziyang, a 61-year-old pragmatic protégé of Mr. Deng, said Yomiuri, the independent, mass-circulation daily newspaper.

Yomiuri quoted the sources as saying that the latest information of dramatic changes in China's top government jobs was brought to an unidentified Japanese member of parliament of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party by Mr. Tan Qilong, head of a Chinese delegation currently visiting Japan.

Mr. Tan, a member of the party central committee, is reported to be another one of 76-year-old Mr. Deng's protégés.

According to the newspaper, Mr. Tan quoted Mr. Deng as saying, "China is now prepared to separate distinctly the party, the government and the state from each other."

"For this purpose, Hua Guofeng will be relieved of his concurrent post of premier and he will devote himself to the job of party chairman, while Vice Premier Zhao Ziyang will be appointed premier," he was quoted as saying.

Mr. Deng was further quoted as saying, "It is true that I give up my vice premiership. I will become the chief of state in order to establish the independence of the party, the government and the state."

Informed observers speculate that if Mr. Deng is made chief of state, the current Chinese constitution, adopted at the national People's Congress in March 1978, will have to be revised.

The post of the chief of state was abolished at the 4th national People's Congress held in Jan. 1975 and the article on the post was deleted from the constitution.

Some of the reported government changes that are likely to take place at the forthcoming congress have already been announced or indicated in the past several months.

Among such changes is a report that a number of aging leaders and officials are expected to resign to make a way for younger men or women. The officials like to include Vice Premier Xianman, Chen Yun, Bo Chen, Yongqiu.

The People's Congress, China's parliament, is an important body in China ever.

Vietnamese-led force attack guerrilla base W. Kampuchean border

THAILAND, July 26 (R) — Shelling inside western Kampuchea, where Vietnamese-led forces have launched an attack on a base of guerrillas loyal to the ousted Khmer Rouge regime, was clearly heard in this eastern Thai frontier town for 45 minutes this morning.

Military sources in Bangkok said yesterday that the Vietnamese had intensified their sporadic artillery attacks in the Khmer Rouge jungle base area around the hills of Phnom Malai just south of Aranyaprathet.

A Khmer Rouge source in a base close to Phnom Malai today was the first day of a "determined attack" on the base area. He indicated could mark the start of a battle in the area.

Military sources in Bangkok said about 3,000 Vietnamese troops were involved in the around Phnom Malai, which were under intermittent attack over a year since the Khmer Rouge retreated area. The Vietnamese have stepped up operations recent weeks.

'I've been cruelly wronged' claims tanker tragedy man

DUBLIN, July 26 (R) — A man on whom major blame was placed in the report yesterday of an official inquiry into a tanker disaster which killed 50 people at Ireland's Bantry Bay oil terminal last year said today: "I have been cruelly wronged."

Mr. John Connolly, who was terminal control duty despatcher when the 61,000 tonne French tanker Belguese caught fire and exploded, denied the allegation in the report that he was absent from his post.

"I was there, and I was there all night," he said at his home in County Cork. His employers, Gulf Oil, have declined comment on the inquiry report. The French oil company Total, owners of the Belguese, said they disagreed with the report.

S. Korean journalists freed

SEOUL, July 26 (R) — Martial law authorities today released four South Korean journalists working for foreign news organisations who were detained two days ago.

The journalists, detained in early morning raids by plainclothes military security agents, were Mr. Oh Ilson of Reuters, Mr. K.C. Hwang, bureau chief of Associated Press, Mr. Hon Hak Bum of the Japanese radio station NHK, and Mr. Chung Ho Sang of Japan's Asahi Shimbun newspaper.

Two other journalists detained last Thursday, Mr. Sim Jae Hoon, who works for the New York Times, and his wife Chang May-ang Sook, a feature writer for a local newspaper, were released the same day. No official explanation has been given for the detentions which occurred just two days after the martial law commander, Gen. Lee Hui Sung, hosted a dinner for about 50 journalists working for foreign news organisations.

Martial law was declared over most of South Korea last October following the assassination of President Park Chung Hee and was extended last May following student riots and an uprising in the southern city of Kwangju.

Keralite politicians convicted of murder in S. India

NEW DELHI, July 26 (AP) — Two Communist legislators in the southern state of Kerala were convicted Friday of the 1978 murder of a rival politician, the United News of India agency reported.

Both were sentenced to life imprisonment, the agency said.

District judge K.A. Antony said Mr. M.V. Rajagopalan and Mr. K.V. Raghavan, members of the Kerala state assembly, cold-bloodedly knifed to death a Hindu nationalist leader, Mr. K. Raveendran, on Nov. 2, 1978.

Communists and Hindu nationalists have frequently clashed in Kerala in the last two years. The state is ruled by a Communist coalition.
